Community Challenge 2007

Building on the Silicon Valley Chapter's growing history of community service and partnership with ALA's Community Challenge Weekend, the Chapter is excited to invite you to participate again, or for the first time, in one of our events.

As a growing and vibrant chapter we have the opportunity and responsibility to provide greater resources and service to our communities, beyond many of your individual community service contributions. To accomplish this, the Chapter is providing more forums for action. Two community service opportunities have been arranged this year.

On Saturday, October 6th, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Santa Clara, ALASVC will partner with Hands On Bay Area's Contribute to Literacy at RAFT (Resource Area for Teachers). RAFT provides bay area teachers and community groups with learning materials to enhance math, science and art activities. Working in their warehouse, we will be sorting supplies, creating learning kits and working with teachers to fulfill their supply needs.

On Saturday, October 27th from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. in Sunnyvale, ALASVC will join Pathways Hospice Foundation in their efforts to provide health services to our local communities. One of their many efforts is the distribution of flu packs. We will be assembling and packaging the various items that will aid in the prevention and treatment of the flu for the many people Pathways Hospice serves.

At this time, we need your commitment to participate in either or both activities. Please reply to Shawn Derfer (sderfer@mwe.com or 650-813-5170) with your interest or any questions. Directions will be sent out later.

Thank you for volunteering to help your ALA chapter and our communities in these important efforts.
